About us

We are a busy, privately owned practice in Far North Queensland, dedicated exclusively to avian, reptile, exotic pet, and wildlife patients. You will be joining our team in providing quality veterinary care for a very diverse range of species and delivering exceptional customer service for our clients. Our practice has a strong education; and wildlife health and conservation focus that is promoted through clinic-run training workshops and information sessions. We are an active sentinel clinic for Wildlife Health Australia.

Our regional demographic and varied caseload offers a perfect opportunity for learning and expanding your skillset within the workplace.

We are looking for:

- Minimum 3 years' experience in clinical practice, including at least one year in avian, reptile, exotics or wildlife practice
- Memberships in Avian Health, Zoo or Wildlife Medicine or Unusual and Exotic Pet Medicine, or intention to sit in one of these Chapters, highly desirable
- Ability to work in sole charge, supported by the principal and intern, with the focus on pet avian, reptile and exotics practice management
- Excellent customer service and communication skills; and an ability to multitask whilst working efficiently both individually and within a team environment
- Willingness to contribute to afterhours work, including team and client training, additionally rostered duties if required
- Commitment to 35-38 hours per standard week
- Enthusiasm for learning and continuing development

What the position offers, but is not limited to:

- A small team working environment
- Research skills development
- Wildlife rehabilitation medicine and conservation initiatives
- Above award wages
- A very diverse work environment and opportunity to upskill and gain CPD credits
- Regular chocolate and treat infusions to survive the tough days

If this sounds like the role for you and you would like to learn more please send a covering letter, including a description of your suitability, and your resume to the Practice Manager at: info@boongarryvet.com.au
